Bud Reed gets Rotary Club's top award

EL CERRITO — It was a gala night for the Albany Rotary club when members and their guests celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the local club at the Cerrito City Club Saturday.

Approximately 100 people attended the celebration, highlighted by the presentation of the Paul Harris Fellow Award to Ingraham "Bud" Reed and the reading of a resolution by Mayor Robert Luoma of Albany to the club accepting the recently dedicated Parcours donated by the Albany Rotary Club in the linear park under BART.

Mayor Luoma also presented the president, J. J. Sturgeon, with a framed proclamation setting June 2 as Rotary Day in Albany. The surprise award to Reed was made by Richard Hyland, District Governor of Rotary International, District 516. The award was given Reed for his outstanding work in placing foreign students in American homes under the Rotary International student exchange plan.

According to Hyland, Reed has been one of the leaders in the student movement for the past three to four years and has "been of extreme help to Rotary International and has brought honor to the Albany Club," Reed stated.

There have been five other recipients of the award in the 50 year history of the Albany Rotary Club, according to Hal Denham, one of the winners. The others include George Bernard, Cecil Lavers, Joe Vila and Harold Olson.

Lavers, the only charter member of the club at the anniversary party, and his wife, cut the anniversary cake following the dinner. Past presidents of the club who attended included

Elmer Coble, Bill McCully, Harold Fetter, Bill Woolworth and Dick Janese. Former member Jim Woulfe also was present and was introduced by Jerome Blank, who acted as master of ceremonies, presented the oldsters and gave a history of the club from the time Lavers organized the Albany Rotary Club in 1929.

He pointed out the fact in those days, kids could, and did, play ball in any part of the city as it was mostly vacant lots. Builders C. M. MacGregor, Joe Vila, Sherwood and others were starting their construction and the homes that sold in those days for $500 to $5,000 are today commanding prices of $75,000 to $100,000, and there are mighty few vacant lots, none of which are suitable for baseball playing.

Blank also reminisced on the old Wimpy hamburger stand, the Melon Cleaners and other pioneer Albany businesses, most of whom are gone today. The evening ended with community singing led by Blank to music furnished by Marion Caruso.

Gateview board gives answers for council

ALBANY — Answering charges leveled at them by a faction of the residents of Gateview, the four embattled members of the Board of Directors of the McKinley Towers Neighborhood Council, has distributed a two page rebuttal to all homeowners, it has been learned.

Brought about by the recent articles in the local press and Letters in the Mailbag column of the Times, the letter distributed by Inhi Olofsson, Don Scott, Sol Strand and Robert S. Wilson outline the problems that have beset the operation of the condominium since the takeover from the original owners, Interstate General Corporation.

According to the piece distributed by the four, they state Board member Clifford Harrington, who is the subject of a recall, is an employee of Interstate General, has distributed, by mail, a three page attack on board members present and past. The four maintain Harrington's letter presented a "distorted, often malicious and pro-IGC propaganda" view.

The letter from the four board members state that was not until the election of the previous Board, made up of Odd Haugen, Brian Abrahams, Emy McKinnon, Scott and Mary

McGrath, that homeowners gained control of the operation and maintenance of McKinley Towers, with "but minor IGC influence."

In the letter, the four charge that when the previous Board began to probe into the past operations, structural deficiencies and "questionable" financial practices, Interstate made charges to discredit the Board members and organized a recall movement that was turned down by the majority of the Homeowners. The letter charges the

Clean up week set for June

ALBANY — Clean Up Week in Albany has been set for the week of June 18 through June 22, according to Robert Guletz, Director of Public Works for Albany.

According to Guletz, rubbish and trash will be picked up in the residential areas during the week free of charge as a public service of the City of Albany and the Oakland Scavenger Co., who holds the franchise for garbage collection in the city.

The pickup will be made on the regular day the residence is serviced by the company, it was said, but not necessarily at the same time. All trash and rubbish should be placed in the parking strip in front of the home the night prior to the regular pickup day, Guletz said.

The free pickup service is for residences and duplexes only and no apartment houses or over two units, nor any commercial establishments will be given the free service, Guletz said.

Harrington loses seat on Board

ALBANY — At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Gateview McKinley Towers Neighborhood Council, Clifford Harrington, recently elected member of the Board of Directors, was recalled by a vote of 217 to 43.

With all homeowners of the Gateview project eligible to vote, Harrington, who was elected in April of this year to the five member Board, has been the center of a controversy that has included charges and countercharges by the two factions of the edifice.

According to a news release by Don Scott, vice-president of the McKinley Towers Neighborhood Council, it was felt by a majority of the homeowners that his employment by Gateview Realty, an "appendage" of Interstate General Corporation, developers of Gateview, constituted a conflict of interest.

Citing the fact there is a one and one-half million dollar suit against Interstate by the homeowners for faulty construction and misrepresentations, Scott said about a month ago an ad hoc committee of homeowners organized a recall movement against Harrington and presented a petition with 173 signatures calling for his removal from the Board of Directors.

Following the ballot count, Jack Gruver, who was next in line in the last April voting, was named to fill the vacant seat.

Allan Morgan named PTA outstanding man

ALBANY — Allan Morgan, 19 years a Social Studies teacher at Albany High School, has been named the "Outstanding Teacher of the Year" by the Albany High School PTA, according to Mrs. Hisako Mizutani, chairperson of the nominating committee of the PTA.

Chairman of the Social Studies department at the High School for the past three years, Morgan has been a leader in school activities and was the originator, organizer and leader of the annual trek of Albany High School students to Washington, D.C., under the "Close-Up" program sponsored jointly by the Federal government and private enterprise. The yearly trip to the United States capitol offers an opportunity for students to see, at first hand, the operations of the Federal government. The pupils visit with local Congressmen and Senators, tour the various government offices and observe the workings of Congress.

At the student body assembly last Friday, Morgan was given recognition by the PTA and its president, Mrs. Carolyn Gan, for his extraordinary teaching abilities and for his "importance as an influence in students lives." According to the award, he has taught students to "Think" and is responsible for laying a foundation for the students to acquire knowledge, realizing student's thoughts and expressions are of importance to both the pupil and the class.

Morgan began his career at Albany High School in 1960 and has been recognized for his work in educational and academic teachings. He has been involved, since coming to Albany, in community betterment programs. Morgan also has been an active member of the Albany High School Site Council. An active athletic coach and a strong supporter of Albany High School, Morgan ranks as one of the best football announcers Albany High School has ever had, according to his friends. He is one of the five teachers at the High School selected to serve on the pilot teacher-counselor project.

"Allan Morgan is receiving an honor that we are most happy to see him get," James Walker, Albany High School principal states. "He has been one of our most valuable teachers over the years and has been a great help to both the students and the faculty."

"I am very happy he has been named the PTA 'Outstanding Teacher of the Year,'" Walker said.

With his wife, Irene, Morgan lives in Pinole where his two sons attend school. David, a tenth grader, is an active freelance writer, it was revealed, while his younger son, John, is a seventh grade student and active in sports.

Council meet decides big Center issue

ALBANY — The Albany City Council heard the final arguments, both pro and con, on the hiring of a full or part time director for the Senior Center at the regular meeting Monday night.

With Emilie "Bud" Rooney at the meeting, he was asked to explain his plan of operation of the Center and asked if the money was available under any grants to continue the operation as it is now and with a full or part time director.

Rooney said the Center needs four or five employees to continue operating as it is at the present time and to keep the programs going. He outlined the options that are available for operation of the Center and offered five suggestions. He said that the first option is the operation of the Center as it is, with a part time or full time staff. He suggested forming a non-profit corporation to operate, staff and manage the Center; to operate on a pay-as-you-go plan with revenue to come from the various clubs and groups that use the Center; to apply for grants to operate as present or with a full or part-time staff.

He said the Albany Senior Center was the first center in the State to get a grant from the State and part of the proviso was the Center be made available to any Federal, State, County or local organization making the proper application. "It is a multi-use facility," Rooney stated, "and there is no basis to refuse its usage to any Senior citizen's group."

Many members of the audience said their feelings were that a full time, professionally trained, qualified director must be hired. The same theme was played at the meeting a week ago Tuesday night with some of the same members of the audience speaking. The only one to speak on behalf of the present staff of CETA workers was Bertha Girard who said the CETA people perform many tasks that are not apparent to the Seniors.

She cited the telephone conversations that furnish much information that is not revealed to the public nor to the Council. She was backed up by Councilwoman Joyce Jackson who said she believed the CETA employees were doing a good job and made a motion to direct the City staff to make application for a grant that would include not only a full or part-time director, but also would keep the CETA employees on the payroll. City Administrator William E. Haden then revealed the CETA program is to end soon and the City cannot get anymore CETA grants. He also said the City cannot apply for grants for the continuation of both the CETA program and money for a full or part-time director. Mrs. Jackson then amended her motion to have the staff prepare two applications for grants and the motion was passed.

Chris van Eckhardt, chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission of Albany, asked if the CETA (Cont. on Page 8, Col. 8)

ALBANY — The meeting of the Board of Education of the Albany Unified School District, scheduled for Tuesday, June 12, has been cancelled, according to an announcement from Charles E. McCully, Superintendent of Schools.

The next regular meeting of the Board will be held Tuesday, June 19 at 8 p.m., in the Marin School multipurpose room.

"Intolerable" situation at Albany High

ALBANY — "We used our own automobiles to transport student athletes and/or we spent valuable time in organizing and securing parents to help us transport athletic teams and equipment. . . . The situation is intolerable!"

In a letter to James A. Walker, principal of Albany High School, the 11 coaches said they had "subsidized the 1978-79 athletic program," and asked they be excused from the same chores in 1979-80.

Maintaining the average coach spent between $300 and $400 per season for mileage cost for transportation in connection with the athletic program for Albany High School, the coaches, who said they have endangered their own automobile insurance policies in connection with the extra curricular activity, have said they will not continue the practice any longer.

Saying the morale of both coaches and students is at a critical level, the signatories have asked that special consideration be given to provide adequate monies in the next fiscal year and "look to you for appropriate solutions and leadership to this critical issue prior to June 15, 1979," when the school year will end and prior to the start of the Fall athletic program.

Citing the fact the Albany High School track team has had to travel to their meets by BART, the coaches' letter said many of the parents were upset by the members of the team missing classes enabling them to get to the meets, plus the fact, in some instances, the athletes did not get home until unreasonable hours.

Recognizing that many parents have lent aid to the programs, the coaches also know many of the parents cannot be absent from their jobs and in some instances there is a prior engagement. Answering the letter, a checking copy of which was sent to Superintendent of Albany Schools Charles E. McCully, McCully said he has included, again this budget year of 1979-80, funds for the athletic programs, including transportation. He said he had the same funds allotted for the current year, but the lack of money forced the cancellation of the allotments.

"We hope to have the money problems resolved," McCully said, "and will be in a position to fund the programs as we have in the past. If the pending school finance bills pass in Sacramento, we should be in that position, but, again, it remains to be seen."

He also said he was willing to go along with the coaches statements and commended them on the subject and composition of the letter. The letter was signed by all the coaches of Albany High School, Kermit Bankston, Joseph Cruz, John Senuta, Phil Wanlin, Doug Kagawa, Deborah Landes, David E. Frey, Bob Hoyle, Virginia Behm, Robert Shaffer and Wally Choy.

Albany B of E meeting put over a week

ALBANY — The regular Board of Education meeting of the Albany Unified School District has been changed from Tuesday, June 12 to Tuesday, June 19, according to Charles E. McCully, Superintendent of Schools for the district.

The meeting of June 19, to be held in the Marin School multipurpose room at 8 p.m., will focus on the public hearing on the District's affirmative program, McCully said. Other items of the agenda will be overpowered by the hearing to which all residents have been asked to attend.

The hearing is the outgrowth of the last meeting of the Board of Education where several parents commented on the ethnic make-up of the employees of the District, claiming the majority of the positions in the school system were menial jobs and that the balance of ethnic make-up is not in ratio to the student population.

One of the most vocal, and surely one of the most acrimonious, meetings of the Albany City Council occurred last Tuesday, May 29. Both William E. Haden and Emile "Bud" Rooney were accused of not knowing what they were doing when they put in the controversial application for aid for the Senior Center from the Alameda County Committee on Aging. Jean Cramer said of the application for funds submitted by Haden, City Administrator of Albany, and Rooney, head of the Parks and Recreation Department, was a "hastily and carelessly drawn up proposal" for funds. The statement came after she had pointed out to Haden that his figures for the operator of the newly constructed Senior Citizens Center, to be opened this month in dedication ceremonies, came to $2.25 per hour. "Haden intends to hire a block coordinator to be coordinator of the Center and he intends to pay him, according to his figures $2.25 per hour, 52 weeks times 20 hours a week at $45 per week (makes the $2.25 figure). I think what you meant was $5 an hour. Didn't you?"

"Well, as a professional trained administrator, you should have been very careful about what kind of figures you submitted, because that in itself is enough to indicate" the proposal as outlined, was not correct.

The occasion for the rhetoric was a discussion of the proposed operation of the Senior Center. There is a disagreement between Jean Kramer, president of the Senior Club, and the City Staff on the operation of the Center. Ms. Kramer opines the Center should have a "professional trained qualified director." and charged the CETA people who are at present working at the temporary center in Memorial Park, "are not doing what the Seniors feel they ought to do. They are not being helpful, are rude, lazy and refuse to assist the Seniors."

She said the block coordinators, of which there are four, that both Haden and Rooney would like to see operate the Center, are lacking qualifications. Haden and Rooney maintain the present operation would give the Center staffing of 128 man hours as the Center is to be open seven days a week with 49 hours during the daytime and 20 hours during evening hours. The Center is to be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., plus the night activities as scheduled. A hired operator would only work 40 hours a week, Haden and Rooney maintain.

According to Haden, the Staff met with the Alameda County Committee on Aging and "they let us know, in no uncertain terms, of their dissatisfaction with the grant as we submitted it. Unless we are in their good graces, they nix our grant. With both Joyce Jackson and Lewis Howell, councilmembers, asking questions about the hiring of part-time or full-time manager, Haden said there is not enough money. Howell asked if any other funds were available and Haden said there might be some money coming from the Old Americans fundings. That is when Ms. Kramer took the podium.

"The grants submitted to us by Haden and these gentlemen to the County Committee on Aging were deemed to be inadequate and very poorly written and hastily drawn up." "It was a grant to ask or provide inadequate leadership for the Senior Center," Ms. Kramer said, and then attacked the CETA personnel as outlined above. "What qualifies the Block Coordinators to take charge of the Senior Center as a whole? Isn't that a case of the tail wagging the dog? We had activities established by a professional trained person but they are running down."

After her attack on Haden and the City Staff for the proposal submitted to the County Committee on Aging, Howell stated the City was given two days to submit the request to the Committee on Aging of the county and that the request was to be hand submitted. This again started another dissertation by Ms. Kramer that ended up with charges that Haden and Rooney had not attended the May 7 meeting of the Alameda County Committee on Aging to push the application for the grant. She said the proposal was not "for the best interests of the Center. We have had all kinds of pressure by Bud Rooney... the whole responsibility is being thrown on the shoulders of the Seniors."

"If you are really interested in the Center, you will right the wrongs done the Center by firing our professionally trained director." Referring to Rooney, "The CETA people are not adequate. You will stop harassing us. We are used to the best and we won't settle for less!"

This brought about the retort by Haden that Ms. Kramer was taking a "cheap shot at the Staff. One member is not here to defend himself." Haden also said that his belief is the CETA employees are doing an excellent job of taking care of the Center and that the Albany Committee on Aging had met and discussed the problems as outlined by Ms. Kramer. Councilman William Lewis said he had attended the meeting where the discussions came up and that neither Ms. Kramer nor Catherine Webb, secretary of the Committee, were at the meeting. Referring to the "hassles" at the Albany Committee meeting, Thomas McQuaid, a member of the Commission, stated the "hassle" developed when "the statement the CETA people were not cooperating with the Seniors... this was one of the hassles."

"The complaint was the CETA persons were not cleaning the refrigerator. The refrigerator was dirty and they asked the CETA people to clean the refrigerator and which they didn't do and our president had to clean the refrigerator and on another subject, they didn't make coffee. We pointed out the CETA people were not hired as maintenance people, but for clerical duties."

This is when Vice-Mayor Howell said "we have to bury the political hatchet... quit using the Senior Center for a political football and let's do what we can for the Senior Citizens of our City."

After a statement by William Woolworth, chairman of the Park and Recreation committee, it was decided to put over further discussion until the next meeting of the Council.

Howell said he believes the city should try to obtain funding for the coordinators and that if any extra money is available, a director might be hired. He added that "politics" is the cause of the controversy and that the Albany representative of the County Committee on Aging should do everything possible to obtain outside funds.

THE DELINQUENT DOG OWNER

The owner-pet relationship is more emotional than rational. For the owner the relationship is a complete state of mind with deep psychological implications. Because of these facts I am very skeptical of "public education" as a means of inducing responsible behavior in problem dog owners; the appeal to "reason" upon which such public education is based is doomed to fail on the ears because of the intense, deep-seated, and irrational nature of the owner-pet relationship.

Any appeal to the delinquent dog owner to change his/her behavior must be an appeal to the emotions. I have written a "Dear Neighbor" notice which (1) describes graphically the potential pain and suffering which the pet is exposed in its free-roaming and (2) arouses a visceral response in the owner regarding the importance of the pet in the owner's life and the emotional costs to the owner's family in the event of pain, suffering, or loss of the pet. The appeal is intended to be as supportive and nonthreatening as possible so as to maximize the possibility that the problem owner will get the message and act responsibly.

Dear Neighbor:
I am writing to you as a fellow dog lover to share some thoughts on being a dog owner.

Our pets mean a lot to us; but when they roam free, they are exposed to very grave dangers. For example, "dogging" is a crime well-known to law enforcement. I wonder how many dogged pets are sold to new owners who neglect or mistreat the dog. A few probably end up as experimental subjects in research institutions.

The number of free-roaming dogs hit by cars is staggering; the pain and suffering and death that result from the collision of dog and car are tragic. We wouldn't allow a four year old child to travel alone on the public streets so it has to be folly to expect a dog to be able to protect itself at all times under the same circumstances. Many owners believe that their dog is sufficiently "street wise" or "car shy" or "traffic safe" to be safe from harm on the streets when unsupervised. There really is no such thing. No dog in the world has enough intelligence to correctly sense all the dangerous traffic situations that arise. So many dog owners discover this fact when it is too late.

A free-roaming dog is a potential poison victim. Dogs are exposed to all kinds of poisonous materials, including household garbage, and do poison themselves by eating dangerous and fatal substances — as well as foreign objects which can cause a fatal intestinal obstruction. And there is the occasional "dog poisoner" who pops up from time-to-time in a community. In my experience such a person is likely to be an otherwise decent and sane citizen who feels at the end of higher regard with regard to the effect of free-roaming dogs on plants and garbage cans, personal safety, etc. But whatever the person's motives, and regardless of how justified such poisoning is, the fact remains that before you know it five or ten or more of a neighborhood's loved pets will be dead. The most common poison used by dog poisoners is strychnine. Death due to strychnine poisoning is very ugly; it involves severe convulsions that lead to death by suffocating while fully conscious.

Disease is another real threat to the free-roaming dog. Contagious diseases are more likely to be contracted the more that a dog is exposed to other dogs. And inflicted trauma is more likely too; a dog can be injured by another dog, and some dog fight injuries are as loss of an eye, are irreparable.

There are two myths widely believed by owners of free-roaming dogs. One is that their dog never strays from the owner's premises. People believe this because when they come home from school or work, the faithful pet is sitting on the front steps. It never occurs to these owners that their dog learns when master or mistress returns home each day and simply times his return accordingly.

The second myth is that a confined dog has a miserable life, which a free-roaming dog enjoys a happy life. It is not uncommon for owners of free-roaming dogs to respond to the dangers facing their free-roaming dog by stating: "Well, I'd rather that my dog had a short, happy life than a long, miserable one." The assumption here is that confined dogs are unhappy. Not true. Millions of dogs live their entire lives in apartments, seeing outside world only twice a day when their owners run them. Some of these dogs are even St. Bernards and Great Danes. The point is that most dogs adapt very well to confinement, if their owner is willing to give them ten or twenty minutes of exercise and attention each day. Roaming uncontrolled and unsupervised is not necessary to the mental or physical health of a dog.

Anyone who needs to be convinced of the truth of the above statements need only ask his/her veterinarian. It is the veterinarian who must deal with the tragic consequences of so many free-roaming dogs — the disease, maiming, the death, and the grief and pain of those whose beloved pet must suffer or be killed because of roaming.

Our pets mean so much to us. They bring us joy, delights and pleasures, such warmth and affection, their absence would substantially diminish the richness of our lives. Yet, many of us do not fully appreciate our important pets are until they're gone. We regret that we have granted the faithful friend walking at our side riding with us in our car, performing little tricks on command, resting happily at our feet at night, always aware of how much our pets mean to our hearts and the confusion and suffering that they experience when their pet is hurt or dead? Do we ever really think about how important our pets are to us? Do we ever consider how great a sense of loss — and much guilt and grief — we would feel if our pet disappeared through our ignorance or negligence?

Perhaps, we ought to.

Six classes have been set up for the run, with awards for winners, either men or women, in the under 15 years of age group; 16 to 29 year old classes; 30-39, 40-49, 50-59 and the 60 and over runners.

Lefthander Mark Valente led the way with 482 for four games as scoring began to improve in the 535 Scratch Trios League at Albany Bowl.

In giving the league a new high total for the summer, Valente needed games of 212-211-179-240 to edge Randy Felix, whose 838 cluster was marked by one game of 245 and another at 224.

Also above the 800 level were John Taylor with 824 and Ed Carrara, 801.

Valente also shared first place in the Summer Doubles eliminations with Ike Pontius. Their total was 1,322.

Will Warren continued to perform impressively in both the Jubilee leagues, leading the Men's Jubilee with 631 and the Jubilee Mixed with 559.

Bunnis Turner was top producer in the Gin Mill Fives circuit, stringing counts of 213-206-191 for 610 in leading the Falmings 3-0 over Haven Court.

At Hiscoc shot 234-604 to take honors in Vacation Fours over Curt McCray's 565, while Oscar Matthews offered 594 in Thursday Sleepers play. Ed Ojeda shot 585 in Men's Jubilee. John Taylor 578 in the Junior-Senior Fours. Bill Taylor 562 in Morrison Memorial and Johnny Valencia 548 for Sons in Retirement.

Greg Curtin defeated Bill Roeben 255 to 246 to win the West Coast Bowlers tournament. In earlier steepladder matches, Larry Laub nudged Bill Coleman 268-267 but found another 268 not quite enough to hold off Norm Palomares, who had 10 strikes in a row for 286. Then Curtin took over, smothering Palomares 223-160 before taking on the top qualifying Roeben.

Editor Sir:

The story of CODORNICES VILLAGE, a temporary World War II housing project located partly in Berkeley and partly in Albany, has historical and sociological interest because of its impact on the cities of Berkeley and Albany. Codornices Village opened in April, 1944, and was vacated in the mid-1950's. The project housed 1896 families, or about 8,000 people.

Material for the story of Codornices Village is currently being assembled. Essential for this purpose are descriptions from individuals regarding the manner in which Codornices touched their lives. Consequently, the following kinds of letters would be most helpful:

1. Letters from former residents of the Village describing what living in Codornices Village meant to them.

2. Letters from minority group residents describing their experiences when they moved into private housing outside the Village.

3. Letters from residents of Berkeley and Albany whose lives or neighborhoods were affected in some way by Codornices Village.

4. Letters from public employees (teachers, recreation directors, policemen, firemen, etc.) whose duties took them into Codornices Village.

It goes without saying that if the story of Codornices Village should ever be published, no names of any letter writers would be used without their written permission.

All letters will be most gratefully received and should be addressed to the undersigned at P.O. Box 711, Forestville, CA 95436.

Sincerely yours, DAVID KINKEAD

Editor Dear Sir:

This is Not an answer to the recent letters from your regular correspondent from Gateview, but is a question to you, Sir, since you saw fit to carry her "charges" on the front page of your paper.

My Journalism teachers taught me that one must check ones facts before allowing items to appear in the news columns. It seems to me, then, Mr. Editor, that you would have asked questions of the members of the Board and other homeowners before running that "story." Such as:

What could these 'selfish interests' and conniving Board members possibly gain from such illegal, underhanded activities as have been ascribed to them? Since they are all homeowners themselves, would it serve them well to scuttle the image of Gateview?

Would not the Boards have been remiss in their duties to the homeowners who elected them to protect their collective interests, had they let the Statute of Limitations pass without filing suit for the structural

DAD WILL FLIP OUT OVER FLIP-PHONE.

Enough already giving ties and pipes. It's the same thing every year.

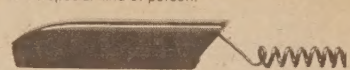

So flip Dad out this Father's Day with the gift that flips out - the GTE Flip-Phone™ Telephone.

Not only will it be an unexpected gift, but also an unexpected type of phone.

Just take a look at what the Flip-Phone telephone offers: an electronic design that gives you "pushbutton" dialing convenience on most private phone lines; it's the smallest and lightest phone in the world; it's easy to buy, easy to install, easy to use, and, it comes in four colors: arctic white, antique white, soft yellow, and espresso brown.

Flip Dad out this Father's Day and buy him a Flip-Phone telephone - a special kind of phone.

After all, he's a special kind of person.

TRAVEL

Away We Go

Dear Friends — Here we are following one of the worst weeks for travel agents in travel history. At our Tuesday night meeting, Philip Martin of Philip

Martin Associates in Oakland, who with his family has been in the travel business since the 1920's, agreed that it was so. Tuesday we spent six hours trying to get through to United and by the time we did so, had an hour and a half of bookings to give them. Clients in a hurry were sent to larger agencies with Apollo Sabre and Pars computer systems. We have always hoped to remain small — just the three of us in the office — and give strong personalized service — but if the airlines are going to favor high-volume producers with computers and high sales, we may have to give up our "Mom and Pop Store" dreams. Not quite yet, however. This is the season to book and plan the summer vacation, and for the umpteenth time we point out that package tours are the most organized and least expensive way for a traveler to go anywhere. Package tours have come a long, long way since the "If this is Tuesday, this must be Belgium"

Days. Tours are regionalized, cover less territory and offer wide variations in quality of hotels, side trips offered, meal plans and tour escorts. Last week a client called who had so enjoyed her tour escort on a Maui tour trip that we called Maui tour on the phone and asked which tour he was leading this year. The client signed up for the next trip when she was told the tour the escort was taking. The creme de la creme of tours are Maui, Tauck and Caravan. For best value all over the world (except perhaps Hawaii), we suggest Unitours/Club Universe. Many clients receive their newsletters directly and come to us from individual brochures and booking. Again we say, the prices may seem high, at the outset, but they avoid that continual drag on the pocketbook that individual travelers experience to their dismay. Its a case of "Know Before You Go."

Our tip for the week might be booking a Fall Foliage Tour with Tauck or Yankee Holidays. Fly east on a round trip super saver — say American's flight to Toronto, take Canadian Rail on a lovely 4 hour trip to Montreal, tour around and fly home — or take Canadian Railroads across Canada. Their fall foliage is earlier of course. Happy Holidays and us for any travel questions you might have.

INVESTORS ATTENTION!

We have several clients who plan on marketing their apartment units in the near future, ranging from 2 units to 30 units. Albany ball club loses close one to Concord High

ALBANY — Albany's Cinderella baseball team is back in the corner sweeping up the ashes as the result of their 10-9 defeat Friday in the quarter-finals of the North Coast Section 3A championships in San Leandro.

Concord, champions of the Diablo Valley Athletic League, scored three times in each of the last two innings to snatch a sure-fire victory from the Cougars. In the fifth inning the locals were leading 8-5 and were still leading 8-7 when disaster in the way of an apparent strikeout, hit.

Even with all the controversy, sluggers Michael Johnson, Anthony Freeman and Jeff Chamness kept up their pounding of the horsehide. Johnson closed his high school career by pounding a bases loaded triple in Albany's fourth run fifth, and then singled and scored in the seventh. Freeman stayed hot and hit a ground rule double in the seventh as Chamness put a 2-0 pitch over the fence in centerfield for a score tying homer in the second.

With one out, Concord trailing 9-7, and Jon Sanders pitching in relief of Angelo Gilbert, Concord leftfielder Mike Raymond swung at a 3-2 pitch and let his bat fly toward third base. Raymond thought he had struck out.

Unbeknownst to Raymond, however, base umpire Bruce Pimental had their season suddenly ended. "We had a damn good season," Albany coach Phil Wanlin said wistfully. "It's just too bad we had to lose like that."

Wanlin argued vehemently following Sanders' "strikeout." "I did not see any umpire give any signal (for a time-out) until after the pitch was made," he said. "I don't want to say anything more about the call, except that I didn't like it."

The controversy began when Albany second baseman Bob Sujishi asked Pimental for the count. "I asked him what the count was and he said he wasn't sure," Sujishi said. "Then he called time, but I didn't ask for it. I'm sure that cost us the game."

"He (Sujishi) asked if it was 2-2, but my indicator said it was a full count," Pimental said. "Then he asked for time and I called it."

Added Barnes: "My partner called time before the pitcher ever started to kick."

The brouhaha apparently took its toll on Sanders. The final three Minutemen hits did sting. "It looks like it did affect me, didn't it?" Sanders said. "I didn't know what the situation was, but it sure looked like I had a strikeout."

Raymond thought he had been whiffed, also. "I didn't know what had happened until the umpire motioned me back," he said. "But I guess that makes up for all the bad calls during the season."

- Free personalized bank checks.
Mechanics Bank prints your name, address and sequential numbers on your special bank checks — all at no charge! (Other check designs are available at the usual costs.)
- Free traveller's checks.
PrimeTime travellers are always entitled to commission-free First National City Traveller's Checks.
- Free bank-by-mail.
Do your own banking on your own time, from your own home. We pay the postage both ways and provide self-addressed envelopes.
- Direct deposit of Social Security checks.
For safety and convenience, your checks may be deposited directly and automatically.
- Free PrimeTime I.D. card.
Ensures quick and easy transactions for PrimeTime members.
